SOUTH SENECA STORY

At South Seneca, we are entering now into the sixth year of our Extended Day grant from New York State. This grant allows us to lengthen the school day on a voluntary basis for any of our students, so they can take advantage of expanded enrichment opportunities, extra academic help, and a safe, social environment with their friends and our staff. We are fortunate to be one of 83 districts (out of about 700) in the state to receive the grant. It's our second round now of a cycle granted five years at a time.

With each new year that we operate the program, we look to learn from previous years with an eye on improvement. We've discovered which offerings are most popular among students and families, and we've been able to streamline the academic support for the best effectiveness. Our partnerships with community organizations have gotten stronger, and we've added more bus monitors to help out with younger students, especially for the weeks when our later dismissal corresponds with darkness around daylight savings time.

It's remarkable to see the participation numbers, especially in the Elementary School in Interlaken, where activity in the building at 4:30pm and beyond looks almost equal to what it looks like at 11:30am! It has made a deep impression on our faculty and staff to see how many families choose to take advantage of the extra hours, and how much our students enjoy the experiences they get in those after-general-dismissal hours. The numbers in Ovid are smaller, but that is understandable considering the other options our older students have after school, which include athletics and extracurricular clubs.

Years ago, we were able to operate some after school programs through a 21st Century grant where we partnered with United Way of Seneca County, but that opportunity passed over time. United Way continues to be a great partner of ours, and we still take advantage of multiple smaller projects we can offer with their help—but our Extended Day grant has been an incredible addition to the work we do since we received it in 2016. From fun foreign language instruction, to expanded fitness classes, to horseback riding and STEM labs and cooking and crafts—not to mention tutoring and academic enrichment and healthy snacks, plus so much more—this opportunity has been, and continues to be, so rewarding for our school community.
