The Three Bears Speakers Series

Over 13,000 Years of Indigenous History in the Cayuga Lake Region

Wednesday, March 22 at 7:00pm

Dr. Samantha Sanft is a postdoctoral associate at Cornell University where she specializes in the archaeology of North American Indigenous groups and community-engaged research.

This talk explores the deep history of the Indigenous peoples of the Finger Lakes region from an archaeological perspective. Focusing on the Haudenosaunee (or Six Nations Iroquois) and their ancestors, Dr. Sanft uses archaeological evidence to discuss long-term changes in material culture, settlement, subsistence, and trade. Multiple archaeological sites located around Cayuga Lake are presented.
