Obituary

THOMAS W. OLSOWSKE, age 80, died peacefully at his home on McGrane Road on Friday, October 3, 2025 and is now reunited with his wife of 54 years, Virginia.

A private service for the family will be held at Mount Green Cemetery in Romulus. In lieu of flowers, kindly consider a donation in Thomas' memory to: MacDougall Sportsmen's Club, 3800 MacDougall Road, Waterloo, NY 13165.

Thomas was born in Seneca Falls on April 5, 1945, a son of the late Stuart and Ruth (Keefer) Olsowske. He started farming as a young boy and was a graduate of Romulus High School. Thomas had 40-year career as an owner/operator truck driver, mostly hauling steel up and down the East Coast. He was married to Virginia MacCheyne on July 18, 1969, and they made their home in Varick. He was a Founding Father of the MacDougall Sportsman's Club where he enjoyed attending club functions, along with watching NASCAR, going to Canoga Sportsmen's Club with his Uncle Bill and visiting his son Mike's shop in Geneva.

He is survived by his children; Bethie (Paul) Wintermute, Mike (Michele) Olsowske, and Lisa (Todd) Ingalls; his five grandkids and their children, as well as several nieces, nephews and many friends. Thomas was preceded in death by his wife, Virginia on July 4, 2023, and by his brother, Stuart.

11TH ANNUAL PENNSYLVANIA INFANTRY, GETTYSBURG AND A DOG NAME SALLIE

WE ARE NOT ACCEPTING NEW CLIENTS OR ADMITTING FORMER CLIENTS WHO HAVE NOT BEEN INTO THE PRACTICE IN THE LAST THREE YEARS!

(Reprint) While returning home from a recent 4th of July weekend R & R in Ocean City and a quick visit with my dear sister-in-law and her family in Frederick, Maryland, Theresa and I stopped to visit the hallowed ground at the Gettysburg Civil War battlefield. Because she is not as fascinated by the place as I am, let me put that another way: I stopped, and she came along for the ride. I had promised her that we'd only be researching five different spots on the battleground that I read about in my various studies of the engagement. One would be the spot where General Buford and his calvary held off the Southerners's advance on the first day of the battle. Another was to visit the place where General Reynolds was felled by a sharpshooter. The others were General Webb's statue at the Angle, the Irish Brigade's monument near the Wheatfield, and the 11th PA Infantry Regiment's monument on Oak Ridge. It was such a beautiful day and everything was so interesting, that our intended one hour quick stop turned into four hours.

Of the nearly 2,000 plaques, statues, and other memorials at the Gettysburg battleground, there are only two dogs portrayed, and of these two, only one, Sallie, was actually at the battle. She can be found on the back side of the 11th Pennsylvania's Monument on Oak Ridge. Very few people know she's there because even though the monument sits right next to the road, you have to get out of your car and walk around the statue of the soldier in order to see her. There you'll see her resting, watching over the field she had so long ago bravely defended.

The 11th Pennsylvania Infantry Regiment was formed during the first year of the Civil War in 1961 from residents of several Pennsylvania Counties. The unit would participate in nearly all of the big battles including Cedar Mountain, Antietam, Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville and, of course, Gettysburg. 1,890 men served with the unit during the four years of the war; only 340 lived to be discharged at war's end. During their first month of training, a lieutenant from the regiment was given a pug-nosed brindle bull terrier puppy by some grateful townspeople and in short order, she became the unit's mascot. They named her Sallie, after a local girl from the nearby town of West Chester. Sally drilled along with the soldiers, attended roll call, and during parade, would march with the regiment's colors. Although she was described to be of even temperament, she was known to hate three things: Rebels, Democrats, and women.

Her first battle was at Cedar Creek in 1862 where she remained on the frontline helping to guard the regimental flags. When concerned caretakers tried to get her to remain safely in the rear of the fighting, she doggedly (sorry, I couldn't help it) returned back to the front. She did likewise at Antietam, Fredericksburg, and Chancellorsville. On the first day of the Battle of Gettysburg, the 11th Pennsylvania's defensive position was overrun by the Confederates and all who were able had to retreat to the relative safety of Cemetery Ridge. In the rout, Sallie was no where to be found. When the battle was over two days later, the survivors of the regiment found her back on Oak Ridge. Hungry and nearly dying of thirst, she had steadfastly refused to abandon her fallen comrades, protecting them on their field of glory from looters and scavengers.

In 1964, Sallie would be badly wounded in the neck at the Battle of Spotsylvania, but would survive. However, in 1865, just months before the end of the war, while accompanying her fellow warriors in the first wave of an attack on the Confederate's position at the Battle of Hatcher's Run, she took a bullet to the head and died instantly. With great sadness in their hearts, and under unmerciful fire from the enemy, her compatriots buried her on the battlefield.

Because the writer of one of the articles that I used for researching this story did such a good job in his/her summation of the 11th Pennsylvania Regiment's achievements and their monument at Gettysburg, I shamelessly paraphrase what they wrote in their report: At the base of the statue is a bronze likeness of a little dog. It is Sallie ... keeping watch through all of eternity over the spirits of her boys, just as she did so many years ago during all of the battles they shared. A dog so loyal and full of love for her men that the regiment's survivors insisted she be remembered on 'their' monument for all of time.

Thank You

To the dear people that supported me, I want to thank my family, friends, community, and everyone that contributed to making the Chicken BBQ benefit held for me on Sept. 27th such a huge success. It's so wonderful to see such care in our small community and the overwhelming love and support from everyone. I also want to say a special thanks to the individuals that took the role of organizing the benefit and put so much effort into it that day. My sincere thank you to my son Jeff Elliott, Christine Dresser, to all the kind men that made the delicious meal for us, the wonderful bands that provided entertainment all day, and all the people that sat at the door and sold tickets. I have a big thank you to all the businesses that donated items for our silent auction. That was a huge success!!!!

The Backbone Ridge History Group
Presents a special program on the

MILITARY LOT SURVEYS

Sunday, October 19th
Burdett Fire Hall at 2:00 p.m

A final presentation by Keith Jenkins who has entered data transcribed from the field books recorded by the original surveyors who laid out the military tract on the Hector Backbone. The online map will include the towns of Ovid, Lodi, Covert, Hector, Ulysses and Enfield.

Keith works at Cornell University, where he is the GIS and Geospatial Applications Librarian at Mann Library. He helps students, faculty, and staff at Cornell find geospatial data and to use software such as QGIS and ArcGIS to analyze their data and make maps. This project was conceived and started by Allan Buddle and Bob Kibbee, and executed by volunteers for the Backbone Ridge History Group.

If you've wondered about the military lot surveys, how they were created and how to access the information, join us! Judy Wickham Butterfield and June Szabo have some new information to share and if you've attended one of these before, join us again for some new twists!

Sponsored by the Backbone Ridge History Group and the Nelson B. Delavan Foundation
