Menopause Isn't Optional, Care Shouldn't Be Either

Kat Proper, an OB/GYN Nurse Practitioner says it's important for all women to seek perimenopausal and menopausal care.

It's a life transition every woman will experience. The gradual hormonal change known as menopause typically starts between the ages of 45 and 55. Kat Proper, an OB/GYN Nurse Practitioner at Arnot Health, a Member of Centralus Health, says it's important for all women to seek perimenopausal and menopausal care.

"We define menopause as twelve months without a period. This is hard to know in women who do not have their period for whatever reason."

Even though menopause is normal, providers say there is still a lot of misinformation surrounding the change.

"Many women enter the menopause transition with worries based on myths rather than facts. A common misconception is that menopause is the start of a long decline in health or vitality, but it's a natural and often empowering phase of life," says Marie Harkins, OB/GYN Nurse Practitioner at Cayuga Health, a Member of Centralus Health.

Menopause lasts about seven years on average but can range from a few years to over a decade. This transition encompasses perimenopause, when hormonal changes begin; menopause, when a woman goes twelve months without a period; and postmenopause, the rest of a woman's life after her final period.

"It can impact their lives for decades to come. They should be aware of what's going to happen, how it's going to affect them, and how hormone replacement therapy or other treatments could help them or hinder them," says Kat.

Individualized care helps women through menopause by creating customized plans, focusing on unique symptoms, health history, and preferences for safer, more effective relief, improved quality of life, and empowerment through shared decision-making with providers.

Cayuga Health's integrated, multidisciplinary team strives to provide compassionate, holistic, evidence-based care. Cayuga Health offers OB/GYN care at 260 Tompkins Street, Cortland; 401 Cayuga Park Lane, Ithaca; 20 Arrowwood Drive, Ithaca; and 220 Steuben Street, Montour Falls.

Arnot Health provides a full range of specialty services for women at every stage of life. Arnot Health offers OB/GYN care at 600 Fitch Street, Elmira; 123 Conhocton Street, Corning; and 100 John Roemmelt Drive, Horseheads.

ALEX COOPER, 28, of Ithaca, passed away on February 12, with his mother by his side.

Alex was preceded in death by the son of his heart, Rykelan Brown, and his sister, Cherish Cooper. The loss of Rykelan weighed heavily on his heart.

Born into a large and loving family, Alex was the cherished son of Michelle and Brian Austin of Interlaken. Family was at the center of Alex's life, and he shared close bonds with his many siblings: Erica Rowland (Todd) of Dryden; Christy Johnson (Robert) of Groton; Katelyn Cooper of Interlaken; Ashley Hathaway of Interlaken; Nickolas Cooper of Groton; Leanne Redmond (Michael) of Kentucky; Tandom Miller (Christoffer) of Interlaken; and Samantha Cooper of Las Vegas, Nevada. He also held a special place in his heart for his many nieces and nephews, who brought him great pride and joy.

Alex will be remembered for the deep love he held for his family and for the connections he made throughout his life. He had a way of forming lasting bonds and leaving a meaningful impression on those he met. Though his time here was far too short, the memories he created and the love he shared will remain in the hearts of all who knew and loved him.

He will be deeply missed and forever remembered by his family and friends.

WHY DOGS DRAG THEIR BUTTS: ANAL GLAND DISEASE, ANAL PRURITUS, ETC.

WE ARE NOT ACCEPTING NEW CLIENTS OR ADMITTING FORMER CLIENTS WHO HAVE NOT BEEN INTO THE PRACTICE IN THE LAST THREE YEARS!

(Reprint) Picture this heartwarming image in your mind: a forth of July outing with the whole family sitting around a large picnic table overflowing with a bounty of delicious and scrumptious foods. Dad is there at the head of the table reverently passing out his flawlessly barbecued hamburgers and hot dogs. Grandma and grandpa are at the table, as well as brother-in-law Joe and his family up visiting from Alabama. And just as this Norman Rockwell-moment is about to reach its blissful conclusion, sweet little Fifi, the family's slightly obese apricot poodle comes scooting by, in plain sight of everyone, dragging her nasty butt across the freshly mowed lawn.

Discussing the topic of anal pruritus (Pruritus ani is the medical term for having an itchy butt hole) can be a little bit embarrassing. That having been said, it's still an important aspect of your pet's health, and if there is a problem, it is important that it be attended to. Most of the time, the problem is uneventful; on rare occasions, anal itching can be a sign of potentially life threatening disease.

Hands down, the most common problem I see with regards to a dog's (and occasionally the cat's) itchy rear end is anal gland disease in all of its various forms. For owners who are not familiar with anal glands, here is a short description. Dogs, cats, and skunks have two structures in their anus called anal glands. And what they are, are scent glands. Located at 4:00 o'clock and 8:00 o'clock within the muscles of the anal sphincter, what is supposed to normally happen is that when the dog poops, as their feces pass through the anus it squishes these glands which then empty their, pungent, musky-smelling, contents on to the dog's poop. This glandular secretion represents the dog's unique smell. It is this smell that other dogs are trying to distinguish when the sniff each other's butts or crap. The normal condition of anal glands is empty. When anal glands fill up to full capacity, they hurt the dog like a tooth ache!

This leads to the most common cause of itchy butts: Anal Sac Impaction. With anal sac impaction, FOR REASONS UNKNOWN, the dog's anal glands don't empty like they are suppose to. Dogs with impacted anal glands will drag their butts (known as "Scooting"), rub their rear ends against trees and door jams, and generally seem to look back at and appear anxious about their back sides. Sometimes, and quite most commonly, the only symptom the owner notices is their poor dog "just don't act right". I get that last symptom a lot! They sometimes will also chew and mutilate their tail heads, crotch, or area around the anus.

The cure for anal sac impaction is to just have the sacs emptied by your veterinarian. It may be the only time it may need to be done in the dog's life; it may need to be done monthly. My personal rule-of-thumb is that if the anal sacs have to be emptied (the medical term is expressed) less than monthly, then the owner should consider having the glands removed.

Although it is not a bonding experience between you or your pet, I have also taught owners to empty their dog's anal glands. Before I proceed, clients usually ask me what they can do to help prevent impacted anal glands. The answer to this question is that there is NO Answer. The cause has been blamed on everything from being over weight to lack of exercise to the phases of the moon to the Clinton administration. There are a lot of claims to curing this problem, but I've found none to work with any reliability.

Closely related to anal sac impaction is Anal Sacculitis. This is a condition where the anal glands become inflamed and are very often infected. This is a very painful problem for your dog and needs to be attended to medically by your veterinarian. Most of the time they respond well to simple antibiotic therapy. Again, THIS CONDITION MUST BE TREATED. If it isn't, it can lead to anal gland rupture!. These are pus-filled, draining tracts to the outside skin in the region below the dog's butt hole.

Another problem seen during our hot summer months are Maggot Infestations. Although it can occur in all both cats and dogs (and all animals) of any age or breed, it is most commonly seen in thick-furred dogs such as Siberian huskies, American Eskimos, German shepherds, Akitas, etc. One of the earliest signs of maggot infestation is the dog's reluctance to stand up, all they want to do is sit squarely on their rear ends. Owners of these thick-furred breeds should (to the best of their ability) keep the area around the dog's butt shaved and clean during the fly season. Whenever any unusual behavior of any kind is seen, it behooves the owner to lift the dog's tail and look.

And there is more, but I'm out of room.

Greatest Man I Wish I Knew
Abraham Lincoln

To walk in his steps he made
To feel the love he gave
To all people
Greatest man I wish I knew
Abraham Lincoln
In a time our country
Needed to share love
For all mankind
No matter the color of his skin
Greatest man I wish I knew
Abraham Lincoln
A man who loved all people
Thank him for all he's done
To shake his hand
Greatest man I wish I knew
Abraham Lincoln
He freed all slaves
All men should be treated equal
A great president to remember
A man who loved all people
Greatest man I wish I knew
Abraham Lincoln

ROLE OF SCHOOL BOARD MEMBERS SUBJECT OF SEMINAR

The duties and responsibilities of individual board of education members will be the subject of a "Virtual Seminar for Prospective School Board Members" on Saturday, March 7, 2026. The program is scheduled from 9:00 am until 11:00 am virtually via Zoom and is sponsored by the Four County School Boards Association.

School board members are entrusted with the very important responsibility of helping to plan for the education of the State's youth. This seminar is designed to acquaint prospective candidates and the public-at-large with the role of board members.

This year, all school board members will be elected on May 19th. Candidates for boards of education must file their nominating petitions at least 30 days prior to the election (20 days for small cities).

A school board candidate must be a U.S. citizen, at least 18 years old, able to read and write, a district resident for one year prior to election, and not employed by the school district or related to a current member of the board of education.

There is NO CHARGE for this seminar. Registration is required to receive a Zoom meeting link and can be done through the Four County School Boards Association: Online: www.fourcountysba.org under Current Events, email: 4countysba@edutech.org, or by calling your local school district's board clerk.

You're helping a child get dance lessons or a team jersey, & helping parents put food on the table.
